Panel 1:

App Reviews

After releasing his app for the school gym, Patrick checks the reviews that were left on the app. He wants to see what he needs to fix/change.

Panel 2:

Reviews:

Interface is difficult to use

App interface has bugs

When looking at reviews, Patrick notices that the app's interface is a problem. He decides that he needs to see if these things actually need to be fixed.

Panel 3:

Patrick then uses the app on his phone to test it for himself. He notices why the users are complaining about the apps interface. He decides that it definitely needs to be fixed.

Panel 4:

Please Enter Email and Password to Sign in or Sign up to create account

Email:

Password:

Login

Sign Up

Patrick's first change is to simplify the Login screen to make the app more user-friendly.

Panel 5:

Check-in

Check-out

Home Screen

Height:

Weight:

Goals:

Messages:

Profile Screen

Patrick's next alteration is to fix the basic features of the website. He makes the interface for the app's basic features more user-friendly.

Panel 6:

Checklist:
1. Release updated app
2. Make sure updates work
3. Check reviews
4. Continue to implement more advanced features

Patrick then releases the changes the update with all the interface changes that he made. He then checks the reviews left after the update to make sure everything is working as intended. As the app was released recently, he continues to implement more complex features for the user

Storyboard by: Jaidyn Syngjellari
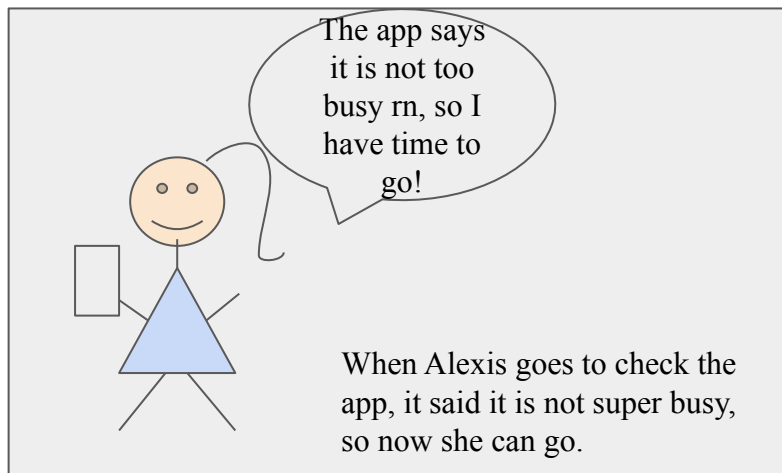

Scene: A professor, Mr. Naas, wishes to work out but does not have the time to wait for equipment at the gym.

1

Mr. Naas is having a rough time. He wants to work out but he does not have the time to wait for equipment at the gym due to his busy work life as a professor.

2

He searches on the internet, looking for a solution to his problem. Maybe there is an app or website which can help him.

3

Mr. Naas finds an app called "Fitness Tracker." It tracks the availability of the gym's equipment.

4

He uses the app to plan his work outs around the gym equipment's availability.
5

Mr. Naas finally works out.

6

After working out for a few days, his mental health is a lot better. Mr. Naas is a lot happier and content.

Credit: www.craiyon.com for images

Storyboard

Persona: Davis Hartley

Scenario: Davis is watching the USC game and wants to know if the gym is crowded

Panel 1: "watching USC football is cool but I want to exercise"

Panel 2: "I hope the gym isn't too crowded for me to adequately excercise"

Panel 3: checks app to see how many people have checked into Stromm

There are 38 people checked in.

Panel 4: Happily gets in car to go to Stromm from House

Panel 5: "He saved 20 minutes since most machines were open"